PERSONAL AND SOCIETY.

At a picnic given not many days ago, a young gentleman invited a young lady to a boat ride. In some way the boat was upset, and the occupants had a sudden and very wet bath. The young lady found her way to a farm-house near by, and doffed her garments, and borrowed some dry ones. They were "miles too big." The young man stuck to his wet clothes, or, rather, they stuck to him, till dry. The accident is likely to have a story-book result, and a wedding is looked for at a date some time in the nineties, for the young man has not missed visiting her a day since—so the neighbors say.

The last weeks of summer have followed all the others so far as social gayety is concerned. All summer the people have been playing "follow my leader" more or less. They have rushed to West Baden and then to Martinsville or Turkey lake. Now camping-out is the fashion, and if done in an easy way it is delightful. With plenty of servants to do all the work, a place near enough to a farmer for milk and vegetables, and near enough to town for all other table luxuries and with all the comforts otherwise possible to be obtained, camping becomes a pleasure. The all-absorbing talk everywhere is much the same, and fellow-men and women are the subjects. Nothing so thoroughly satisfies the gossipy appetite as rumors of an engagement. As a majority of those talked of a year ago have become marriages, so it may prove that the engagements announced this summer are not all rumor. October, as usual, is the chosen month, and the list of weddings for that month is equal to those of any preceding year. Among the events of last week were the marriage of Miss Louise Hibben and Mr. Ernest Wiles on Tuesday evening, several children's parties and the card party of Mrs. Henry C. Rogers for her guest, Miss Spencer, of Richmond, and of Mrs. James McKee. The opera parties and streetear rides have been informed though years the Turkey lake. Now camping-out is the The opera parties and street-car rides have been informal, though none the less enjoyable. The absence of people from town and the excessive heat, doubtless, are the chief causes why society remains so
